

Volunteer Opportunity

Cathlapotle Plankhouse at the Ridgefield National Wildlife Refuge

Volunteer Orientation

April 4, 2015, 10am-3pm
28908 NW Main Ave
Ridgefield, WA 98642

Love to...

Learn about other cultures, share your experiences and knowledge with others, or tell stories?

Curious about...

Local Native American culture, Pacific NW history, archaeology, wildlife, and Native art?

Become a Volunteer!

- No previous experience necessary
- We provide training, reading materials, ongoing volunteer support, and opportunities for professional development
- Can't make the training, but still want to get involved? Contact Sarah to discuss an alternate training plan.

For more info or to register contact Sarah Hill , Plankhouse Coordinator, at sarah_hill@fws.gov or call (360) 887-4106

The Cathlapotle Plankhouse is a full-scale replica Chinookan Plankhouse built to interpret Cathlapotle, a large Chinookan Native American Village that stands on what is today the Ridgefield National Wildlife Refuge, 20 minutes away from downtown Vancouver, WA.